

NEW HOTEL SCENE OF DANCING CARRE OF ALLEGED "DIPS"

Women in Hysterics When Suspected Quartet Is Cornered in Hotel Elevator. Husky Resistance Put Up.

LARGE SUMS TAKEN FROM SECRET POCKETS

Festive Scenes at Opening of New Hotel Interrupted by Arrest of Alleged Gang of Pockpockets.

While the opening festivities were in full blast at the new Hotel Winifred last night, an elevator containing three fashionably-garbed women and two men descended from the top story to the third floor, where the door opened to admit four men in flashy attire and broad-brimmed eyes. A fifth man entered directly behind them. As the car fell to the next floor, this man, who is apparently thirty years old, shouted to the elevator boy: "Shut the emergency door. Let no one out. These men are pockpockets. The women were thrown into a panic. "Let us out," they screamed. "Let us out!"

The man who had given orders to the elevator driver tried to calm the women: "Just a second. We merely want to get these men in the hands of the detectives outside. One will be hurt. The women hysterically insisted. They ordered the elevator boy to open the door. The elevator boy, who is a young fellow named Patrick, opened the door. The four alleged pockpockets dashed for the door. He was caught by the man who had accused him of being a pockpocket to all parts of the floor.

Moore and Patrick took charge of two of the men, who showed no signs of the fourth escape, taking flight down the stairway to the first floor. The three prisoners were taken to the police station. The fourth man, who was named W. M. Moore, refused to give his name. He was taken to the police station. He was taken to the police station. He was taken to the police station.

Detectives Black and Bullard came down from the third floor. They gathered around the man who was named W. M. Moore. They gathered around the man who was named W. M. Moore. They gathered around the man who was named W. M. Moore.

There, they gave the names of W. M. Moore, Fred and Sam. They gave the names of W. M. Moore, Fred and Sam. They gave the names of W. M. Moore, Fred and Sam.

The man who effected the spectacular capture in D. O. Gilbert's hotel, he had trailed the alleged pockpocket in the house during the past few days. He had trailed the alleged pockpocket in the house during the past few days.

JUDGE "A LONE" SAYS MRS. ALBOP

But Chauffeur Mean—Young Georgia Woman's Version Says She "Hadin' Been Drinking Hardly a Thing."

Young Mrs. Albop Told About It. "I was in a taxi cab with my young man. He had been out shopping with some friends, and we dropped into Buchanan's & Martin's to buy some music and watch the dancing. The time came for me to keep an appointment to call on a girl friend of mine at the Ansonia, and after paying my check at Martin's, I did not know I had no money left. I thought I had a ten-dollar bill in my purse. I would not even let me go into the hotel. People began to gather around me, and I was frightened and excited. I begged the driver to take me back to the Waldorf, explaining that I lived there and he would get double fare if he would take me back. But he would not. He was frightened and excited. I begged the driver to take me back to the Waldorf, explaining that I lived there and he would get double fare if he would take me back. But he would not. He was frightened and excited.

"When my husband came to the station house the lieutenant refused to let me go to court in a taxi cab and made me drive there in a police wagon. When that horrible of him? He was drinking hardly a thing. And then this awful accusation of intoxication! Why, I was a perfect lady. I was drinking hardly a thing. And then this awful accusation of intoxication! Why, I was a perfect lady. I was drinking hardly a thing.

Mr. Sharp here interviewed a few brief comments. "I can't understand why the chauffeur would take Mrs. Albop to the Waldorf," he said. "Where, if he had been a man of ordinary means, he would have taken her to a woman of means and been very good to take a chance on driving her a little longer. It was out of the question. He was out of the question. He was out of the question.

TOO MUCH WATER IN THE BUCK CROP SAYS JAMES J. HILL

Great Railway Magnate Tells Investment Bankers That the Country Is Simply Water-Logged With Bonds.

NO VALUE TO SUPPORT MANY OF THE ISSUES

Hill Says the True Story of All the Indebtedness Concealed Behind Bond Issues Would Shock the Country.

Chicago, October 30.—The true story of all municipal indebtedness now concealed behind various temporary devices to be maintained on a creditable credit and help push out the annual crop of new or refunding bonds, was told to a group of investment bankers by the great railway magnate, James J. Hill, in the course of an address at a banquet of the Investment Bankers' Association for American Railroads. "The situation with regard to bonds generally spoken of as 'industrial' is worse. The field is so large and so diverse as to defy statistical calculation. Hundreds of millions of bonds have been issued to promote consolidation, or extension, or the betterment of the purchase price of the enterprise to be united in one big concern. "Other hundreds of millions have been issued against property still to be developed, such as mines, timber, and real estate, where many separate holdings are combined in the hands of one man, or a few men, or a corporation. These are of various degrees of soundness, but the bulk of them are of the type which would fetch a price at a forced sale at any time to meet speculative purposes. This is the situation of the country. It is a situation of the country. It is a situation of the country.

Continuation of a Bond Issue. "Formerly, and always in my private financial undertaking, the limit of a bond issue is the total cash value of tangible property in possession, not the value of the property to which it is an asset for immediate conversion by forced sale at any time into cash. Under the plan the lever might rest secure. The worst that could happen would be that the property would be sold at a price below its value. The worst that could happen would be that the property would be sold at a price below its value.

MAYOR TO SUGGEST PAYMENT FOR WIRING

Result of Conference Over Unauthorized Work at Piedmont Park.

Mayor James G. Woodward will ask the finance committee to put $400 in the February appropriation sheet to pay for the electrical underground wiring at Piedmont Park.

The park board refused to pay the bill when it was presented in October. President J. O. Cochran taking the position that the work was not authorized by the board and further that the park board did not have sufficient funds to meet the obligation.

The board criticized General Manager Carey for allowing the work to proceed without authority, and as the result of the wrangle which extended through two meetings, President Cochran introduced a new set of rules. Friends of a General Manager Carey declared were drafted to carry his authority.

Conference Held Thursday.

The facts as were brought out at a conference yesterday afternoon are that the park board made plans for the work and asked Manager Carey to get estimates. Under the city code Manager Carey was forced to consult City Electrician Turner. Turner says that he understood Manager Carey to ask him to advertise for bids on the work. After the bids were compiled, Turner gave the work to the lowest bidder.

The matter did not reach the park board officially until after the work had been completed and the bill rendered. An effort was then made to force Manager Carey to pay for the work out of his own pocket, but the board declined to do so, and a resolution by which it repudiated the obligation and censured Manager

Carey for not informing the board. On the other hand, Manager Carey said that he had no right to ask the board to have the work installed without the board's approval, and that he had no right to ask the board to have the work installed without the board's approval.

It was for the purpose of getting to the bottom of the matter that the finance committee called a conference Thursday afternoon. General Manager Carey and City Electrician Turner were present. Councilmen Shepard, McCallister, and Councilman Haverly, chairman of the board of electrical control, were at the conference.

The only statement Mayor Woodward would make following the adjournment of the conference was that he will ask the finance committee to provide for the payment of the bill.

As to whether Manager Carey or City Electrician Turner must eventually pay the bill is a matter which will be decided later, he said. "All I want to do is to get the whole business in some sort of shape so as to get it in the finance sheet."

Professor A. L. Sailer, Georgia

be wet, cold and stormy, with a very few warm, fair days. The general outlook for the month, he says, is steady rough weather. December will be cold, wet and stormy, he says, but Christmas day will be fair and cold, with a few warm, fair days.

Select Your Suit From Among Good Suits

Men's ideas differ about clothes, just as they do about books to read, plays to while the hour—each man knows what he wants.

Clothes ideas may differ radically and yet agree perfectly. One man's good taste will pick for him the striking brown mixture of latest mode; the other man of rigidly conserved ideas will seek the plain blue suit of sturdy value and lasting style.

But these two men agree perfectly in their demands for a worthy suit—each man desires the even balance of his expenditure in quality.

The Muse collection of Winter Suits affords a wide leeway of color, pattern and model—all subject to one underlying provision—that all are worthy to carry our unreserved guarantee of quality.

There's a comfortable fitting of prices to amounts desired to be invested—there's a positive assurance of values given.

These things have pleased an increasing number of men—our business is always growing.

Won't you select your suit today—from our splendid collection—from among these good suits?

Dead—One Prize-Winning Pullet, and Col. Jeffries Refuses to Be Comforted

Colonel Thomas Jeffries, clerk of the superior court, is a disappointed man. He lost one of his prize-winning pullets—one that was to be displayed at the forthcoming state fair.

Recently Colonel Jeffries left home to attend the meeting of the National organization, at which he was to give a paper on the subject of "The Pullet in his collection seemed to be a perfect specimen of the breed."

Upon his return, he found that the pullet had been killed by a cat. He was very angry, and he refused to be comforted.

Beautiful Afternoon Reception Given for Miss Sara Rawson

One of the most delightful events in a week of handsome entertainments was the afternoon reception given yesterday by Mrs. T. P. Westmoreland and Mrs. W. R. Hammond at the home of Mrs. Westmoreland, on Peachtree street. Miss Sara Rawson, their niece, and one of the most famous of the fall brides-to-be, was guest of honor, and there was a company of three hundred to meet her.

Elaborate decorations was a feature of beautiful hospitality, and the music of an orchestra from the hall upstairs mingled with the music of voices and features on the reception.

The guests were received in the large living room and there was a display of chrysanthemums in profusion was effectively against the decorated walls and furnishings. The dining room opens out of the living room, and it was fragrant with roses. The table centerpiece was a pink and white chrysanthemum, and the silver candelabra had pink shades and delicate noisettes were placed with taste on the table and buffet.

Refreshment was served in the small reception room, which was picturesque with the red and yellow of Japanese chrysanthemums of many varieties and at their height of culture will be the feature of the annual chrysanthemum exhibition today by the ladies of the Inman Park Ladies.

Liquidation by Longs Main Factor in Decline—Weakness of the Near Months Caused Unsettled Feeling.

New York, October 30.—The cotton market was extremely weak and unsettled during today's trading, with October contracts dropping 50 points from the closing figures of the previous day. New York, October 30.—The cotton market was extremely weak and unsettled during today's trading, with October contracts dropping 50 points from the closing figures of the previous day. This was due to the liquidation of Longs, which was the main factor in the decline. The weakness of the near months also caused an unsettled feeling in the market. The price of cotton fell from 15.00 to 14.50 points. The market was very active, with a large volume of trading. The price of cotton was 14.50 points.
